This picture is from a recent photograph of the house in Westerly, R. I., built by Elisha Stillman, 29, son of George Stillman, 2nd and occupied by him till April 17, 1771, when he sold it to Joseph Stillman, 29. The date it was built, 1748, is cut on the stone chimney. Dan. William Stillman, 48, was born in this house. It is now occupied by Joseph F. Stillman, son of Adam Stillman.

Introductory.

THE WORK of compiling a genealogy of the Stillman family has frequently met with disappointment, inasmuch as conflicting statements were sometimes made by those who were expected to give the facts and which it was found necessary to more fully investigate before making record.

It was more from a sense of personal satisfaction than for publication, that led me to compile the work; and while I have been enabled to obtain a correct record of our ancestors from George Stillman, 1st, I have in the main part of the genealogy, followed the line of my great grandfather, Dea. William Stillman, and his descendants.

By carefully examining the brief genealogy of my great grandfather, Dea. William Stillman, published by himself in 1852; and, from some unpublished papers written by his brother, Ethan Stillman in 1841; and also, from the town records in the town hall at Westerly, the records of other families, family Bibles, tombstones, obituaries, etc., I was forcibly impressed that mistakes had inadvertently been made in some instances.

Tradition and word to mouth statement were in some cases taken for fact, without having sufficiently authentic data to corroborate the matter. These facts together with several errors pertaining to my own branch of the family, led me to make quite an extensive research for the facts, as near as it was possible to obtain them.

In this work I have had the assistance of many members of various branches of the family, who have cheerfully contributed and which is fully appreciated.

While it has been my aim to bring together the facts, to give names, dates and places as accurately as possible, I am aware that errors may have been made, as it is next to impossible to be absolutely correct in every case, as parents and children of the same family do not always agree in every particular.

In compiling this work, I am under great obligations to Mr. Henry Allyn Stillman, of Hartford, Conn., a descendant of George Stillman, 1st, and his second wife Rebecca Smith, of Weathersfield, Conn.; also, to Professor Thomas B. Stillman, of Hoboken, N. J., and to others who have generously contributed their knowledge upon the subject, including trustworthy records of family history not heretofore published.

Many dates have been obtained from the numerous family burying grounds and cemeteries in the vicinity of Westerly and Hopkinton, R. I.

A limited number of copies of this work is now published at the urgent request of members of the family who have been conversant with it for some years past.

Much of the matter has never before been in print, and while no claims are made to any literary embellishment, my aim has been solely to present the plain facts as nearly as it is possible to obtain them.

With this brief statement, I also herewith present the history of George Stillman, 1st, who was born in England in 1654, and came to America in 1684, and settled first in Hadley, Mass., and later in Weathersfield, Conn., and also of his son George Stillman, 2nd, who settled at Westerly, R. I.

EDGAR STILLMAN (1833)

Westerly, R. I., September, 1903.

George Stillman, 1st.

The following history of George Stillman, 1st, who was born in England, is furnished by Mr. Henry Allyn Stillman, of Hartford, Conn., who was born at Weathersfield, Conn., March 2, 1815, a descendant of George Stillman, 1st, and Rebecca Smith, his second wife. Prior to 1850, Mr. Henry Allyn Stillman spent much time and trouble collecting facts about his early ancestors, assisted by Judge Savage of Boston, Mass., and others.

George Stillman, 1st, was born in England in 1634. His wife, Jane Pickering, was born in London, England, in 1650. They were married in London in 1677. They had but one child, George Stillman, 2d, who was born in London in 1678. In 1683-4, Mr. and Mrs. Stillman sailed for America, leaving their only son George, 2d, then about 5 or 6 years old, with friends in England. On the voyage to this country Mrs. Stillman died and was buried at sea in 1684. On arriving in America Mr. Stillman settled at Hadley, Mass. In 1686 he married Rebecca Smith, a daughter of Lieut. Philip Smith, and Rebecca Foote, who was a daughter of Nathaniel Foote, one of the original settlers of Weathersfield, Conn. Rebecca Smith was born in Weathersfield, in 1668.

George Stillman, 1st, became a merchant of enterprise and wealth in Hadley, Mass. In 1698 he was a representative of that town in the General Court of Massachusetts, and a Selectman some years previous. In 1703 he removed to Weathersfield, Conn., with his large family, where his wife was born and her kindred lived. Here he carried on a large mercantile business until his death, Nov. 15, 1728. Weathersfield was settled in 1634, making it the oldest town in the State of Connecticut. The colony came from Cambridge, Mass., and among the original settlers were the Flotes, Smiths and Demmings. It was an important shipping point in early days, the chief exports being horses, lumber, potash, beaver and deer skins, beef, pork, fish, grain, onions, etc.; and bringing from the West Indies, sugar, rum and molasses.

George Stillman, 1st, at the time of his death, Nov. 17, 1728, left an appraised property of £4,436 13s and 4d and land in the following places—Weathersfield, Hartford, Glastonburg, Middletown and Hadham.

In the will of George Stillman, 1st, made July 26, 1728, he gave his wife Rebecca £100 for her own, and then a life use of a large property.

Rebecca his wife died at Weathersfield, Conn., Oct. 7, 1750. In his will he makes this item: "I give my son George Stillman, 2nd, £100 money, besides what he has already received from me, to be paid to him out of my estate, my wife Rebecca and my sons Nathaniel and John executors."

George Stillman, 2nd, was the only child of George Stillman, 1st, and Jane Pickering his 1st wife who died at sea, as previously stated.

To George Stillman, 1st, and his second wife, Rebecca Smith, were born 12 children: 5 sons and 7 daughters, as follows: Rebecca, Mary, Nathaniel, (Dea) John, Sarah, Martha, Anna, Elizabeth, Hannah, Lydia, Esther and Benjamin. There is no evidence that George, 2nd, ever lived with his father after coming to America. He settled on a tract of land at Westerly, R. I., and was propounded a freeman there March 22, 1763. On April 13, 1766, he married Deborah Crandall, daughter of Rev. Joseph Crandall and Deborah Burdick.

George Stillman, 2nd.

[The following records are taken from writings of Deacon William Stillman, and published by him in 1852, in his book, and from writings unpublished by his brother Ethan Stillman, written in 1841. They were the sons of Elisha Stillman, the son of George Stillman, 2nd, the son of George Stillman, 1st. For convenience, the combined records of William and his brother Ethan, are stated, as though but one was giving the account, and that is William, although Ethan writes many things that William does not mention.]

William says, George Stillman, 1st, my great grandfather, came from England and settled in Weathersfield, Connecticut, some three miles below Hartford, on the Connecticut river.

My father, Elisha Stillman, used to visit his cousins at Weathersfield. My great grandfather, George Stillman, 1st, on coming to America, left his son George Stillman, 2nd, with friends in England. On arriving at manhood George Stillman, 2nd, came to America; but for some reason did not settle at Weathersfield, but came to Westerly, Rhode Island, and purchased a tract of land in the bend of the Pawcatuck river, called "Crumb's Neck," some two miles north of the village of Westerly.

In 1706, George Stillman, 2nd, married Deborah Crandall, daughter of Joseph Crandall by whom he had five sons and two daughters. One of the daughters died a young woman, the other daughter, Deborah Stillman, married Benjamin Tanner, by whom she had two children, Nathaniel Tanner and Deborah Tanner. Her husband died young, but she lived a widow to a great age, and was much at my father's when I was a boy. The five sons of George Stillman, 2nd, my grandfather,

In the name of Almighty God, this eighteenth day of April, 1750, in the sixty-third year of the reign of our Sovereign Lord George the second of Great Britain, King, etc

First and principally, I commit my spirit to the hand of God that gave it, and my body to the earth to be buried in decent Christian manner, at the discretion of my executors hereafter named, not doubting but that I shall be raised again, and hoping for the free pardon of my sins through faith in the merits and righteousness of Christ Jesus who kept the holy law perfectly for all true believers. And as for my worldly estate with which God has blessed me in this life, I dispose of in manner and form as follows:

I give and bequeath unto my beloved wife Deborah the use of one-third of my real estate, excepting ten acres that I shall order to be sold, if my estate should be forced to make good any of the land that I sold at Chelchester; and I also give unto her a third part of all my moveable property that is left after my just debts and funeral charges are paid. And also, I give her a cow; and I do hereby order my son Benjamin to keep a cow for her both winter and summer, so long as she shall remain a widow; and I also give and bequeath unto my said wife Deborah the west room of my dwelling house and equal privileges with my son Benjamin in my milk room and cellar during her widowhood.

My will is that my son George shall not have more than half of my orchard, if that will not make it six acres he must take up with less; and my son Benjamin shall have all my fence on said land and wood if he shall cut it in two years.

ITEM. I give and bequeath to my beloved son Joseph Stillman my land I have up in the woods at Westerly adjoining to land laid out to Thomas Wells, and to lands laid out to Jonathan Maxson, and to lands formerly belonging to Peter Davis, as it was laid out and draughted by Daniel Brown, surveyor, bearing date of Dec. 19, 1719, which land was laid out to me and Samuel Langworthy, containing thirty and one-half acres, which land I give to my son Joseph and his heirs and assigns forever.

ITEM I give and bequeath unto my beloved son John Stillman as an addition to what I have given him, twenty shillings in bills as above said, besides an equal share hereafter mentioned with the rest of my children, of moveable estate

ITEM. I give and bequeath unto my beloved son Elisha Stillman as an addition to what I have given him, the land lying in the fresh meadow in said Westerly, which is called quarter share, that I bought of William Crumb, containing as surveyed by Daniel Brown, five and three-quarter acres, and I also give him the privilege of a driftway when it may be convenient passing, with as little damage to the land hereafter willed to my son Benjamin as may be. The said fresh meadow and said driftway I give to Elisha and his heirs and assigns forever

These two thirty pounds I give the use thereof to my said daughter Deborah Tanner, and the use of an equal share of all my moveable estate with my sons that is left after my debts and above legacies are paid, and after her decease I give and bequeath the said sixty pounds and equal share of said moveable estate unto her children lawfully begotten of her body, equally to be divided to them forever

ITEM I give the remainder of all my moveable estate undisposed of unto my sons George, Joseph, John, Elisha, and Benjamin, and one sixth to my daughter Deborah during her life as mentioned above

Explanation of Individual and Family Numbers.

Each lineal descendant has its individual catalogue number. A number in parenthesis following a name and at the head of a section, indicates the head of the family. For instance: Refer to page 9 of the genealogy and we have the family of Dea William Stillman (48); then turn to number 48 in the genealogy on page 7, and his statistics are found.
